Breeder Reactor Fate Uncertain; Seek Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) - The fate of the Clinch River breeder reactor remains uncertain, with the Senate Energy Committee deeply divided over the project and President Carter opposed to anything short of halting it completely.

The committee meets again on Monday to consider legislation that includes $150 million to continue work on the controversial $2.2 billion industry-government venture at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

On Friday, the panel rejected on tie 9-9 votes both the President's proposal to cancel the project and a compromise effort calling for a one-year delay.

Although it was a tentative victory for the project's proponents, administration allies on the committee claim they have enough votes to block the measure from going to the Senate floor.

If it does get to the Senate floor, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the committee chairman, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, have said they will offer the proposed compromise again.

In addition to the one-year delay, this proposal would cut in half the $150 million needed to proceed with work on Clinch River as scheduled.

Jackson and Church said such a move would put the project in a holding pattern without killing it and to enable both Congress and the administration to reassess whether the country really needs a breeder reactor now.

If the project is cancelled, and the nation later decides that it is needed after all, it would cost taxpayers as much as $1.3 billion to get everything moving again, they claimed.

But Carter put the committee on notice Friday, in a telephone call to Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark. that he finds even this middle-ground unacceptable. A veto is possible, Bumpers hinted.

Breeder reactors "breed" more plutonium than they consume in the process of generating electric power through nuclear fission.

The Truth About 'Safe' Drugs

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of six articles on drugs to be printed Saturday's in The Herald. Winners will be chosen from each age group and will be taken to an expenses paid trip to a Cincinnati Reds baseball game.

This article deals with those drugs that we prescribe to ourselves for what ails us. These drugs are called over-the-counter drugs, and can be purchased by just about anyone with no questions asked. But maybe we should ask ourselves a few questions about these so-called "safe" drugs.

One of the basic rules of pharmacology, (the science of drugs), is that any drug, (in the widest sense of the word), can be dangerous, depending upon who is taking it, how much he is taking, and when, how, and why he is taking it. A good example of this is a drug taken by millions of Americans every day. It has been used and misused for many years, but how it works is still a mystery to scientists. Its misuse is responsible for thousands of deaths and countless injuries annually. In overdose deaths it ranked fourth in 1974. Research has shown that the drug can induce not only chromosomal damage, but actual birth defects in animals. Added to this is the medical suspicion that a person may become dependent on the drug. Further, the drug is identified by the suspiciously psychedelic-sounding name, "acetylsalicylic acid." Doesn't sound very safe does it? It's common household name is aspirin.

The purpose of this illustration is not to convince people that aspirin is a "bad drug" and should not be used. It is simply to point out that any drug can be dangerous, and that by looking at one set of facts, and ignoring others, any drug can be made to look as good or as bad as we want it to.

Advertisements would have us believe not only that these drugs are good and completely safe, but that we need them. While it may be true that for some people, at certain times, the recommended dose of a particular over-the-counter medicine may be both safe and effective, it is not true that you need it. There are many methods of dealing with a headache, sleeplessness, or a stomach ache. Over-the-counter drugs are only one way. Relaxation techniques, Yoga, massage, change of diet, and other methods too numerous to mention may work just as well, or even better for you. Some people even swear by certain herbal teas as effective in dealing with what ails you. The point is simply this — you are a unique human being with your own individual likes, dislikes, needs and ways of satisfying those needs. Why not find out what works best for you? Next time you have a headache or stomachache or you can't sleep, stop for a moment, relax, and think about what may be causing your discomfort. Then you might want to think about different ways of relieving it.

Remember, pain is a warning system built into the body that tells us something is wrong, and that we should take some time to find out why. If any pain continues for a period of time that seems abnormal to you, see a doctor.

It is important that we realize that most over-the-counter drugs do not treat what is causing the problem, they only treat the symptoms.

Till next week, good health!

Chemical Donation Proves No Blessing

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - A college that accepted a gift of chemicals finds itself with a complicated safety and disposal problem. The chemicals include poisons, carcinogens and a quantity of a poison gas used in World War I.

The chemicals, from an Indiana company, are in a jumble of jars, cans and bottles that came packed in sawdust in about 50 large containers, Dr. J. Bradford Block, medical consultant for the state Department of Labor, said after visiting the school Friday.

Many of the containers were broken, he said, and if the rented truck that brought the chemicals "had gone over a railroad crossing and the wrong bottle had broken, the whole truck could have gone up in a puff of smoke."

Block said he agreed with the college president not to divulge the name of the school. He also said school officials did not tell him the name of the company that made the apparently tax-deductible donation.

"We're not necessarily discouraging legitimate donations to schools," he said. "But we want to make sure when this kind of thing occurs they don't end up with the garbage along with the good stuff."

The company probably claimed a tax deduction on the items, Block said, because it asked the school to provide a list of the items received and their estimated values.

The school received the chemicals almost a year ago, he said, and a science professor has been trying to sort them out ever since.

Rain, Hail, Winds Hit U.S. Midsection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms, rain, hail, winds and at least one tornado plagued the nation's midsection through the night, ranging in a wide band reaching from the Carolinas as far west as Oklahoma and Texas.

Heavy rain and thunderstorms were reported from the Carolinas through Tennessee, Kentucky and much of Missouri, into Kansas, Oklahoma, west-central Texas and Arkansas.

Heavy rain also fell in southern Illinois, much of the Ohio Valley region and into northern Michigan. Widely scattered showers and a few thundershowers continued over the central and southern plateau continued in northern New England.

One tornado was reported 23 miles northeast of Milwaukee, while hail the size of walnuts was reported 10 miles east of Birmingham, Ala. Some wind damage was reported in northeastern Mississippi and North eastern Alabama. But overnight skies were generally fair from the Pacific Northwest through the northern half of the Great Plains into Wisconsin and upper Michigan. Skies were also fair over much of southeastern Texas and the rest of the Gulf Coast states. Elsewhere, there was considerable cloudiness.

Thundershowers were likely today from the mid-Mississippi Valley across the Ohio Valley and the Appalachians into the northern and middle Atlantic Coast states. Scattered thundershowers were expected from the south Atlantic Coast across the gulf states into the southern plains.

Carter Owes No Tax But Insists On Paying

WASHINGTON (AP)- Aides says President Carter's decision to pay $6,000 in federal income taxes that he doesn't owe points up his tax reform goal of making sure everyone with a substantial income pays something to Uncle Sam.

Carter disclosed Friday that he and his wife Rosalyn owed no federal tax on a 1976 gross income of $55,000. He also said he will insist that the Treasury accept $6,000 "as payment of income tax."

Carter's return showed he was due a refund of !26,026. The president wants only $20,026 back.

The Carters filed their 1976 joint return Friday after getting two extensions of the normal April 15 deadline. They owed no tax because an investment credit from the President's investment in a warehouse and machinery for his family's peanut partnership more than offset the amount of taxes that otherwise would have been payable.

Even with his tax liability for 1976 wiped out, Carter still has a remaining investment tax credit of more than $9,000 that he could use to offset taxes against his 1977 income.

Carter owns the peanut warehouse with his brother, Billy, and mother, Lillian.

In a letter to the Atlanta district director of the Internal Revenue Service, Carter said he wanted to make the unowed $6,000 payment "because of my strong feeling that a person should pay some tax on his income."

Under current tax laws the poor pay no taxes, and Carter has suggested that the number facing no tax liability be increased at the lower end of the scale.

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, was asked what they proffered $6,000 payment portended for the tax reform program the President has promised to unveil in September. He replied that it "was indicative of the President's general approach" to tax reform-to reduce or eliminate the number of Americans of means who pay no taxes.

Carter said in his letter to the IRS that the $6,000 represented 15 per cent of his net taxable income.

FURNISH SHELTERED WORKSHOP — The proceeds of the "How Do You Measure Up" Campaign for the mentally retarded were donated to the Pickaway County Sheltered Workshop to purchase furnishings for the proposed new building. Presenting checks to Jay Clevenger and Trudy Sharrett are M. J. Fath, Grand Knight of Father Hannan Council of the Knights of Columbus, and A. R. Kamler, Campaign Chairman. The donation totaled $1,000, $891.45 from the campaign and $108.55 from the local K of C. Persons who helped with the campaign were members of the Moundbuilders Kiwanis, Circleville Kiwanis, Ashville Kiwanis, Circleville Jaycees, Pickaway Plains Sertoma, Circleville Sertoma, Pickaway Plains La Sertoma, Circleville Lions; students from Circleville, Logan Elm, Teays Valley, and Westfall High Schools; and the management and employes of the Pickaway Arms. Merchants who provided support were Wards Cardinal Market, Ashville Cardinal Market, Jim's Super Duper, Murphy Mart, Hecks, Blue Drummer, Littles Singer Sewing Center, Burger Chef, Buckeye Mart, Super X, Krogers, First National Bank, WNRE, and The Herald. The K of C used proceeds from the first annual campaign last year to purchase a security alarm system for the Brooks-Yates School.

Boys State Measures Conservative

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) - An apparently conservative House in the mock legislature at Buckeye Boys State has passed bills to outlaw abortion and mandatory busing to achieve school desegregation.

Both measures, however, still awaited Senate action Friday.

The only piece of legislation to clear both houses so far in this session of the annual exercise in state government was an interim budget.

The abortion bill passed the House by a 58-45 vote. It classifies abortion as first-degree murder and holds the physician and mother subject to arrest. It also states that life begins at the point of conception.

The busing bill declares that mandatory busing shall not be used as a method of school desegregation.

Other House actions call for illegalization of pull tabs on beverage cans, prohibits sale of nonreturnable beverage containers, require that mandatory literacy test be given to school children at the end of the third, sixth, ninth and 12th grades and ban child pornography.

The Boys State Senate passed bills granting all legal rights to 18-year-old providing for protection of waterways against dumping, banning use of aerosol cans and promoting energy conservation.

Set Hearing In Shooting

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — A former policewoman jailed in lieu $60,000 bond, will be arraigned June 30 on charges of attempted murder and aggravated arson in the wounding of Carlisle Police Chief Robert Reichard.

Mrs. Brenda Lofland Prether, 27, Lebanon, Ohio, is scheduled to appear for arraignment before Franklin Municipal Judge John B. Tracey. Tracey set the bond at a preliminary hearing Friday.

Reichard, 32, remained in Middletown Hospital. He was shot twice with his own pistol in his own apartment, the Warren County sheriff's department reported.

Parochiaid Avenues Opened Up

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court, careful to draw a distinction between aid to schoolchildren and aid to their church-run schools, has opened new avenues that states can use to spend tax dollars for parochial education.

The court's action, taken Friday in a case from Ohio, expands significantly how states can pump money into educational programs in private, predominantly sectarian schools. But the justices did not stray far from a rationale they have used in a long series of decisions on the separation of church and state.

The court upheld as constitutional most aspects of a 1975 Ohio law that provided $88.8 million in state tax money for private schools over a two-year period.

Both sides involved in the Ohio controversy found satisfaction coupled with frustration in the decision, which laid down guidelines for other state legislatures to follow if they want to aid parochial pupils without violating the Constitution.

The Rev. Patrick Fagrell of the U.S. Catholic Conference praised most of the court's rulings but termed "deplorable" the justices' findings that states may not "lend" parochial pupils such classroom equipment as maps, charts, and audio-visual aids and cannot help defray costs of parochial school field trips.

All but 29 of the 720 private schools in Ohio are run by the Roman Catholic Church.

Civil liberties attorneys lamented what they perceived to be an expansion of state aid in the lending of textbooks and in providing academic and diagnostic testing services and the other forms of aid.

Peanut Investment Profitable

WASHINGTON (AP) - A $10,000 investment Jimmy Carter made seven years ago to help finance an experiment with peanut shells now is worth more than $130,000 to the President.

In 1970, when Carter was a peanut farmer running for governor of Georgia, he brought 10,000 shares of stock in a company called Tech Air, Inc., at $1 a share, a spokesman for the Georgia company said Friday.

The firm was looking for a way to recover valuable commodities from otherwise useless industrial waste. Carter and others in the peanut business needed a way to dispose of peanut shells. Ordinary burning was costly and created air pollution.

One of the company's founders, Mack D. Bowen, a professor at the Georgia Institute of Technology, developed a burning system using temperatures of 600 degrees Fahrenheit and near vacuum conditions to break the shells or any woody material into oil, gas and char, the products of natural decomposition.

In 1975, American Can Co. bought Tech Air, offering its shareholders one share of American Canstock for every three shares of Tech Air stock they held.

At the time, American Can stock was selling at about $30 a share, so Carter's holding in the company was worth about $100,000. It closed Friday on the New York Stock Exchange at $40 a share, making the President's share worth approximately $133,320.

When Carter took office Jan. 20, he named Atlanta lawyer Charles Kirbo, a longtime friend, the trustee of his financial holdings to avoid the possibility of conflict of interest. Under the arrangement, Kirbo is not supposed to tell Carter what is done with any stock the President owned.

Kirbo said Friday in a telephone interview that he had not yet disposed of any of the stock.

When Carter took office Jan. 20, he named Atlanta lawyer Charles Kirbo, a longtime friend, the trustee of his financial holdings to avoid the possibility of conflict of interest. Under the arrangement, Kirbo is not supposed to tell Carter what is done with any stock the President owned.

Kirbo said Friday in a telephone interview that he had not yet disposed of any of the stock.

Temperature extremes on Friday were 82 and 70.

ECONOGRAM

ECONOMIC INFORMATION RELATING TO AGRICULTURE

Unemployment in May at an adjusted rate of 6.9 per cent was at the lowest level in 30 months in the U.S. Employment has increased 2.7 million since last October or an average of 380,000 new jobs a month. Continued rises in personal income should increase consumer demand. Employment is increasing faster than unemployment even though many new entrants — particularly women — have recently entered the job market.

Food stamp reform section of the 1977 farm bill is being readied for congressional action in July. Major change is the elimination of the stamp purchase retirement. Currently, a family of four with a net income of $250 per month can buy $166 worth of food stamps for a cash payment of $71. The bonus stamps are worth $95. In the new proposal the family would be given the $95 in stamps. One effect is to make more stamps available to the very poor. Expectations are that tightening income requirements for those on the upper side of the low income spectrum will keep the food stamp program costs near the current cost of $5.7 billion. The new arrangement may be short lived — maybe two years — as consideration is being given to overall reform of the welfare system that would provide a cash supplement that would eliminate food stamps.

Farm input expenditures in 1976 totaled nearly $90 billion to produce the crops and livestock they grew. This was 9 per cent above 1975. The average expenditure per farm for production costs was nearly $32,000 in 1976. Feed expenditures were the largest portion and accounted for 16 per cent of the total; rent, 9 per cent; near 8 per cent for each of wages; fertilizer, lime and livestock and poultry purchases.

Wheat crop in Ohio is forecast at 64.5 million bushels as of June 1, or 2 per cent below last year's crop. Less acres is the primary reason for the decrease. Yields are expected to be 43 bushels compared to 40 in 1976. U.S. winter wheat production usually accounts for three fourths of the total wheat output and is forecast at 1,526 million bushels or 3 per cent below 1976. A large carryover of last years crop will keep prices at relatively low levels.

Soybean oil exports to India have skyrocketed making them the largest commercial market in the world for U.S. soybean oil. In the 1976-77 market year, India may buy nearly 300,000 metric tons to compensate for the sharp decline in their peanut and other oil seed crops last year. Expectations are that India will continue to be a significant commercial buyer through a reduced level, of U.S. soybean oil in the 1977-78 market year. Besides increasing imports to meet consumers needs and spiraling vegetable oil prices, steps are being taken to increase output and to expedite marketing and movement of oils across state lines. India needs an additional 75,000 to 80,000 metric tons of vegetable oil annually to keep up with population growth.

Cow slaughter has continued at levels above historical averages, below last year, but high enough to continue the liquadation phase of the cattle cycle. Low to negative returns in the industry and dry weather in some parts of the country are the major factors in the cow slaughter rates. The cow heard next Jan. 1 may be 51.0-51.5 mil. head compared to 52.4 mil. as Jan. 1, 1977. Cow slaughter the latter half of the year will be heavily influenced by moisture - subsoil, availability of irrigation water and hay supplies — and the normal fall culling rate.

Cattle prices have weakened since May 1. The weakness is not the result of an upsurge in supplies. The weakness appears to be on the demand side. Consumer demand must strengthen or supplies must be squeezed further to improve fed cattle prices.

First Step — Clean The Combine

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

The grain combine should be cleaned up before this year's wheat harvest, said Delbert M. Byg, Extension agricultural engineer at The Ohio State University.

Combines that have been idle and in storage since last fall may have corn or soybeans remaining in various components of the machine. If these grains mix with the new wheat that is harvested, you run the risk of a market discount for foreign material and-or musty material when the grain is marketed, the engineer said.

A more serious problem, however, is the chance for rat and mouse droppings to be found in the machine, especially if the combine was not cleaned of all grain last fall. Rat and mouse droppings will not be tolerated in any wheat offered for sale or storage! Thus, if rodent excreta is found in a grain sample, the whole load will be rejected and not permitted in normal marketing channels.

Byg recommends the following combine cleaning procedure:

1. Move the combine from storage to a washing area where a high pressure water hose can be used to flush out all components of the machine.
2. Remove all inspection covers from the machine.
3. Open the clean out doors on the clean grain auger and the tailings auger.
4. Remove the cover from the drain hole in the grain tank.
5. Clean the stone trap. On some machines you will have to remove the feeder assembly to do this.
6. Use the high pressure water hose to dislodge and flush all grains and debris from the combine. The water flushing method works well because the stream of water will dislodge material that may have become caked. Also, the flowing water carries the debris out of the machine. Pay particular attention to cleaning the raddle or conveyor area under the cylinder.
7. After the combine is clean and the water has had a chance to drain out, start up the combine and let it run at half throttle for about 15 minutes. This will "air dry" the inside of the machine.
8. Replace all inspection covers and clean out doors.
9. Lubricate all fittings with the recommended lubricant.
10. Re-clean the combine each time you harvest a different crop, and
11. Make sure you remember to clean and lubricate the combine before returning it to storage at the end of the season.

Leaf Scorch Affecting Many Maple Trees

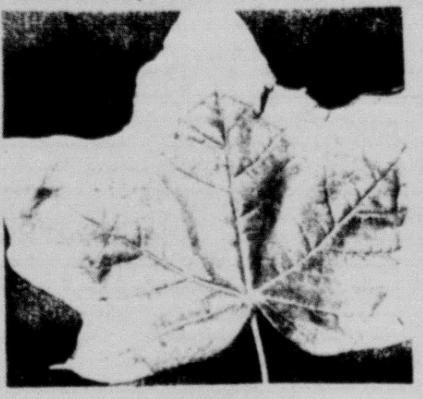
By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Leaf scorch or water shortage is common on hard or sugar maples but may appear on oak, ash, beech, and tulip trees as well as various other trees and shrubs. It may be confused with other conditions that may be affecting the tree at the time. Scorch has been showing up on many maple trees recently.



Scorch Symptoms
On Maple Leaf

This condition is usually more noticeable during hot, dry weather or when hot, dry winds have been blowing. The affected leaves become bronzed in irregular areas, usually from the margin of the leaf inward. Later, the tissue becomes dry and turns brown.

Leaves on one side of a tree may be affected while the remainder of the tree will be normal. This may occur when a cool, moist growing period is followed by several hot, dry days accompanied by strong winds.

In some cases dying tissue will be seen in between the veins of the leaf, starting at the margin and progressing inward toward the main leaf vein. Sometimes small angular, brownish specks appear in this area before all the tissue dies.

Leaf scorch is often caused by an insufficient supply of water to the leaves at a critical time. Large quantities of water evaporate from the leaf surface in hot, dry weather. If water is deficient for any reason, the exposed leaves actually dry out.

Scorch is more prevalent during prolonged dry periods, on light and sandy soils, in city and urban areas as well as in rural areas. Some explanations as to what may affect the plant to result in a water shortage are as follows:

1. Heat reflection from buildings and paved surfaces.

2. Root injury from water, gas, and sewer line construction.

3. Root injury from previous dry weather with secondary organisms entering the root system and limiting water uptake.

4. Root injury where paved surfaces and graded lawn areas limit water penetration into the soil and invasion by secondary organisms has taken place.

5. Root injury because of fill dirt or changes in grade level.

6. Large disease cankers on trunk or branches limiting translocation of water.

7. Verticillium wilt, Dutch elm disease or other vascular diseases present.

8. Girdling roots that limit translocation.

9. Excess salts from de-icing salts, etc.

Control may be achieved by one or several changes, such as:

1. Improve water relations to the tree.
2. Top prune to obtain a better balance between top and roots when permanent root damage occurs.
3. Avoid excessive use of de-icing salt near trees and shrubs.
4. Avoid root injury by digging. If roots must be cut, reduce top to maintain proper top to root ratio.
5. Check for disease, especially cankers or vascular diseases. Removal of branch or entire plant may be necessary.
6. Check for leaking sewer or gas lines and correct.
7. Fertilize, using higher amounts of potash.
8. Remove girdling roots if present. Check the trunk of the tree by removing sod and soil. May be more common when homeowner transplants the tree himself.
9. Serious root damage due to keep fill dirt for an extended period of time cannot be corrected.

ASCS Checking Acreage Reports

Farmers who have planted wheat, corn, barley, or grain sorghum should report their acreage to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) the earlier of the beginning of harvest, or September 1. Report wheat and barley acreage before harvest, Roy Dunkle, Chairman of the Pickaway County ASCS Committee advises.

As in other years, producers, who want to furnish 1977 wheat production data for proven yield pruposes, must report planted acreages no later than July 1.

"So far four houndred farmers in Pickaway County have reported their plantings," Dunkle said. Farmers who have planted acreages of 1977-crop wheat, corn, grain sorghum or barley, and fail to report such acreage may be ineligible for program benefits in 1978, Dunkle said.

According to proposed legislation, if the Secretary of Agriculture declares a set-aside for 1978 crops, 1977 planted acreage could be used to determine set-aside requirements.

ASCS employees will make random checks of farms to verify that acreage reports are accurate.

"As soon as farmers begin reporting their 1977 acreage of wheat and corn, we will begin visiting farms on a random basis to spot check the reports," Walton Spangler, Pickaway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Executive Director said.

Farmers who have planted acreage in 1977-crop wheat, corn, grain sorghum or barley, and fail to report such acreage may be ineligible for program benefits in 1978, Spangler said.

The Iowa breakfast studies spanned a period of ten years and involved the examination of the effects of omission of breakfast, contents of breakfast, and protein types and amounts. Also studied were effects of different breakfasts on intake of selected and minerals and vitamins and on weight loss, late morning activity, and blood sugar levels. Subjects were boys 12 to 14, and men and women 18 to 35, and 60 to 83 years of age.

Some of the significant findings on the 121 subjects were:

1. Skipping breakfast decreases efficiency, especially in late morning. It also diminishes interest in school and results in lowered school achievement.

2. Coffee is no substitute for breakfast.

3. Exact foods eaten for breakfast are less important than their nutrition adequacy. A basic breakfast should include ¼ each of daily caloric and protein allowance in order to maintain efficiency. This breakfast can be adjusted to individual nutritional requirements.

4. Ten grams of protein were found adequate to maintain blood sugar. Fifteen grams were barely adequate and 20-25 were adequate. All forms of protein (plant, animal and mixed) were equally effective in maintaining blood sugar.

5. Diabetics on insulin maintained blood sugar for 3½ hours when 25 gm. of protein were included in breakfast.

6. Skipping breakfast does not help in weight control. It accentuates hunger and causes loss of efficiency.

7. A cereal, milk and sugar bedtime snack will alleviate hunger in evening and early morning. This is good for breakfast skippers or those who eat little breakfast to know.

8. Age makes no difference in breakfast needs — the same principles and motivational needs apply.

9. Utilization of nitrogen (from protein), calcium, phosphorus, and iron and excretion of thiamin and niacin were unaffected by breakfast content.

10. Individuals who had lost weight (in the weight control phase) required less oxygen when doing work — an indication of reduced calories needs. Weight loss also decreased blood pressure.

11. Ability to do work was affected also. 1) All did significantly more work with breakfast than without. 2) A mid-morning (snack) break was not needed when an adequate breakfast was eaten. 3) When no breakfast was eaten, the mid-morning snackbreak improved work in 45 per cent of the subjects. An adequate breakfast seemed to promote maximum work output.

Industrial Education

Formal education never has been limited to educational institutions, but it should be of interest to those institutions to learn that industry is spending more than $2 billion annually on employee education.

Some of these funds are spent on tuition to outside institutions, but a Conference Board study reveals that as much as 80 per cent goes for in-house training. What kind of training? A substantial portion underwrites the training and orientation of new employees, as one might expect.

But the study found a considerable sum also is spent annually introducing employees to skills personnel officials feel should have been mastered in the secondary schools and colleges. When polled on the quality of education, 41 per cent of these officers ranked it "inadequate or poor," and another 47 per cent described it as only "adequate or fair."

Lack of communication skills was the number one deficiency mentioned. Educators, please note.

Shine It On

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Liza Minnelli taught herself the art of singing properly-in her bathroom.

"There's an echo in the bathroom that makes it possible to hear yourself wonderfully. Well, early in my career, when I first started, I thought I sounded much like mom (Judy Garland). I had to figure out what was really me.

"So, well, I trained myself in there, and it meant changing the breathing patterns I'd grown up with. But as a result, I've never had any trouble with my throat, and I set some kind of record in Las Vegas, singing 31 nights, two performances a night, without my voice ever getting tired."

Liza is a trifle hoarse right now; but it's from talking. All those interviews, publicizing the new movie, "New York, New York," which premiered this week. "It was the hardest thing I ever did," she says, "and I'm thrilled with it. If it were never shown, I'd still be thrilled - it was that exciting just to make."

And less than two weeks from now, on July 5, she opens in Chicago in a Broadway-bound musical (tentatively titled "Shine It On") which calls for her to sing 14 production numbers, interrupted by heavy dramatic scenes, without ever leaving the stage during the entire performance.

Liza, who is a semantic wonder, calls it an "If-I-can-live-through-it-it'll-be-great" sort of production. And, of course, she'll live through it. Because: "It's the best woman's show in years. You'd have to go back to 'Gypsy' and 'Call Me Madam' to find this kind of opportunity."

Althought the adjective most often used to describe Liza Minnelli is "vulnerable," she storms ahead on sheer drive, living on a heavy diet of fingernails and a built-in excitement for show business. She seems to bounce from one peak of intense enthusiasm to another; only her thinness hints of the Valleys of exhaustion in between.

Right now, her exuberance focuses on "New York, New York" in which she stars as a band singer of the 1940's.

"It's such a personal film - really 'Scenes from a Marriage' with music. When it's dark, it's very dark, and it takes left turns every once in awhile that hit you - bam! It was shot in Hollywood, which seems strange, but you have to realize that back in the 40's, the impression everyone had of New York City was created for them by Hollywood.

"Oh, I hope you'll see it. Marty (Martin) Scorsese, the director, is a genius and Bobby (Robert) De Niro is as sensual and mysterious as Montgomery Clift was, and we improvised most of the way . . . we really laid ourselves open to bare emotions. The script would give us a 'sequence,' but Marty just told us to let go and say what we felt.

"One night, we all scared hell out of each other. There was a scene where I fight with Bobby, a real fist fight trying to beat each other up, and Marty is showing us how to do it, and I'm screaming and getting emotional, and I hit my arm on something and broke all the blood vessels in it, while Bobby and Marty smashed their hands into a 1941 Buick that was part of the scene, and . . . it was so real that we all had to go to the Culver City Hospital afterward for x-rays."

As she describes it, Liza stands and swings her arms through the air, recreating the emotions as she felt them during the filming, and then slumps into the sofa of her hotel room. To Minnelli, there is intensity and an outburst of energy even in remembering . . .

"It's the energy level I work at," she says. And lives at. It's the energy level her mother worked, and lived at.

In a way, she's making up for lost time. For the first dozen years of her life, as the daughter of Garland and director Vincente Minnelli, "nobody thought I had any talent. Oh, I danced around the living room and everybody said that's sweet. But until I suddenly decided to be a singer nobody thought I really had anything."

When she was 16, her parents, and the world, noticed. "That's when I thought I sounded like mom, and retired to the bathroom to figure how to sing my way." In that same year, she was acclained for her performance in "Best Foot Forward" off-Broadway, and went on to win an award on Broadway in "Flora, the Red Menace." She's been an eager slave to the work ethic ever since.

"I always ask Jack before I take on anything," she says. "I say 'As long as I hooked you, do you mind if I pick your brains?' So he advises, but he doesn't interfere."

Liza is 31 now.

Inevitably, the question comes up: Do you want to have children?

Her answer is brief. "Yes. But we have decided that when it happens, it will happen." Eyes huge, smile small.

She'll be able to handle it.

"People have wondered about my new show, how I can stay on stage for the entire performance without a break. The answer is, I just learn to pace it. I had a lovely compliment the other day. Somebody said, 'If you can't do it, nobody can . . .'"

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If all goes according to plan, between 375 and 425 real estate properties valued at more than $1.5 billion will be offered for sale in the Waldorf-Astoria's Astor Salon on the afternoon of June 28.

Gathered for the event at a ticket price of $175 will be 150 buyers and sellers, representing the nation's big developers, pension funds, insurance companies, mortgage banks, managers and brokers.

No accurate forecasts can be made of how many properties will change hands, but Gerald Jackson, whose brainchild it is, claims a similar event May 6 in Houston might eventually result in sales of $100 million.

Jackson, 42, calls his events national market days, and predicts they will gradually evolve into a national real estate exchange similar to stock and commodity exchanges, including trading floors in six cities.

Simultaenous with the event he is opening offices here. Others are in Houston, Atlanta and San Francisco, and plans calls for Chicago and Los Angeles addresses too.

"We compress into one source, and in this case into one day, the months of hit-and-miss, word-of-mouth selling that is usual in dealing with sensitive properties," says Jackson, who founded the American Real Estate Exchange in San Francisco seven years ago.

Stated another way, real estate markets have been haphazard, localized and devoid of easy communication. Big investors often have to spend months finding properties to consider. "We accelerate the process," he says.

Jackson decided to go national with his idea after studying the possibility for years, even while managing the development of a large ranch package in California.

Thirty years ago, he states, most of the large properties in the United States were locally owned. Since then, he says, title searches show that ownership slowly has become national and, of late, international.

This transition, he continues, occurred simultaneously with the growth of financial institutions, such as pension funds, that because of their size cannot restrict their operations geographically or limited the variety of financial arrangements.

The real estate market, in other words, is a national and international market, with big investors searching out precisely the right properties and financial terms, and big developers seeking out huge sources of capital. —

Civil Service Bill Passes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Representatives have approved a Senate proposal under which present civil services employes would get a competitive edge in exams for promotions within the same governmental unit.

However, the 84-10 vote Wednesday sent the bill back to the upper chamber after the addition of an immediately effective emergency clause.

Sponsors said the emergency clause complied to end frustrations among thousands of public workers who stand to benefit from the legislation. The Senate must add its approval to the emergency clause, to complete enactment.

Under the bill, a civil service employe who earned a passing mark on a test for promotion would receive the higher position, even though applicants from outside the affected agency received a higher mark.

Rep. Bob McEwen, R-77 Hillsboro, said the bill encourages employes to remain in public service and utilize their prior experience to help improve services.

Great Lakes States Stagnant

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Population growth in Indiana and other Great Lakes industrial states was almost nonexistent during the last five years, the State Board of Health reported.

In its quarterly vital statistics report, the board said Indiana's population grew 2 per cent between the 1970 census and last July 1. That figure added to those of Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin produced a regional growth rate of 1.7 per cent since 1970.

State officials said unless there is a dramatic increase in births or a surge in migration to Indiana by 1980, this decade may produce the smallest population growth rate since the state entered the union.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A special protein, "carnitine," seems to have beneficial effects on the heart. Patients with anginal pain and those who have had heart surgery seem to have benefited by this substance, which is referred to as the "heart vitamin."

Although all the studies are not definitive, it seems that carnitine already has established itself as having potential in the control of some cases of coronary heart disease.

Dr. James H. Thomsen, at the Middleton Memorial Veterans Hospital in Madison, Wisc., believes that there is sufficient evidence to continue to investigate carnitine.

Somewhat related is a study released on the value of massive doses of vitamin E for the treatment of heart disease. Dr. Dennis G. Caralis, at the United States Public Health Service Hospital in Baltimore, says, "Even large doses produced no measurable improvement in the 14-month trial study in patients with angina. But vitamin E did no harm, either."

On the other hand, Dr. Evan V. Shute, of Canada, believes that vitamin E has some potential in strengthening the vascular supply to the heart.

Long-term studies are being contemplated to finalize scientific thought about any value that vitamin E may have for benefiting the heart.

Small varicose veins were treated about 50 years ago by injecting a chemical into the veins and "blocking them." Then the technique was discarded, apparently because of "inadequate materials and methods."

Now Dr. John T. Hobbs, of the St. Mary's Hospital Medical School in London, has revived the method and reported some of its advantages. If his findings can be substantiated, and if his new techniques prove of value, it may very well be that there will be renewed interest in this treatment for small varicose veins.

After a stroke, some patients develop a "foot drop" which interferes with their gait.

A remarkable biofeedback approach to this problem has brought great hope to many of these incapacitated people.

Dr. John V. Basmajian, a poineer in biofeedback, has been rehabilitating many of his patients at the Emory University Rehabiliation Center in Atlanta.

He and his co-workers are impressed with the value of biofeedback for this and other deformities caused by nerve problems.

Dear Editor:

The Pickaway County Composite Squadron 1004, which has only been in existance slightly more than a year, is in need of much publicity concerning its activities in order to insure continuance of the CAP program in Circleville and Pickaway County. The Squadron, which is undergoing a process of reorganization and revitalization, is conducting an extensive recruiting program. The squadron has just been provided with its own Civil Air Patrol aircraft and will receive a 29 passenger bus is July. We feel that these two items will enhance the CAP program and make it more desirable to both cadets and senior members.

"The Pickaway County Composite Squadron 1004 of the Civil Air Patrol will be conducting an intensive recruiting drive to fill cadet and senior member vacancies. The drive will commence on June 29 and continue until all vacancies are filled. Squadron 1004, which was formed in the spring of 1976, is headquartered at the Pickaway County Memorial Airport and meets each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

The purpose of the Civil Air Patrol is to increase aerospace understanding among its members and the general public through education and training programs. Cadet training receives the bulk of CAP effort and is limited only by the imagination. Cadet programs stress the "whole person" concept. Instruction covers aerospace education, including in-flight orientation, leadership, and physical fitness. Senior programs include the study of flight principles, air navigation, weather, and communications. Senior members also can participate in various USAF resident and correspondence educational programs.

Squadron 1004 presently has its own CAP aircraft, a Cessna 150, which will be used to provide cadets with realistic aircraft maintenance training and orientation flights. In addition, the squadron has just received word that they will be receiving a 29 passenger bus in July. The bus will be used to transport squadron members to the Civil Air Patrol's many activities conducted throughout the state each year.

For further information concerning the Civil Air Patrol and the Pickaway County Composite Squadron 1004, contact 1Lt. James D. Waldeck at Circleville 474-6551 after 5 p.m. or visit the Squadron Headquarters during one of it's weekly meetings held each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. at the Pickaway County Memorial Airport located approximately 7 miles south ov Circleville and just west of U.S. Route 23.

Parochiaid Rule Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — States may spend tax dollars to provide parochial school pupils with books and certain educational services but cannot finance field trips or lend parochial schools equipment such as maps and audio-visual aids, the Supreme Court ruled today.

In four separate opinions on a case from Ohio, the court said some forms of state aid to parochial schoolchildren do not violate the Constitution's ban against linking government und religion.

The decision appeared to be a partial victory for a group of Ohio taxpayers which challenged the Ohio law as an unconstitutional establishment of religion and a partial victory for state officials who insisted the law was valid.

Legislation passed by the Ohio Legislature in 1975 "lends" up to $8 million worth of materials and services over the next two years to students in private schools, most of them run by religious organizations.

The decision seems to give states a limited way to circumvent the Supreme Court's past decisions outlawying the use of taxpayer dollars for most forms of aid to private schools.

Industrial Education

Formal education never has been limited to educational institutions, but it should be of interest to those institutions to learn that industry is spending more than $2 billion annually on employee education.

Some of these funds are spent on tuition to outside institutions, but a Conference Board study reveals that as much as 80 per cent goes for in-house training. What kind of training? A substantial portion underwrites the training and orientation of new employees, as one might expect.

But the study found a considerable sum also is spent annually introducing employees to skills personnel officials feel should have been mastered in the secondary schools and colleges. When polled on the quality of education, 41 per cent of these officers ranked it "inadequate or poor," and another 47 per cent described it as only "adequate or fair."

Lack of communication skills was the number one deficiency mentioned. Educators, please note.

Shine It On

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Liza Minnelli taught herself the art of singing properly-in her bathroom.

"There's an echo in the bathroom that makes it possible to hear yourself wonderfully. Well, early in my career, when I first started, I thought I sounded much like mom (Judy Garland). I had to figure out what was really me.

"So, well, I trained myself in there, and it meant changing the breathing patterns I'd grown up with. But as a result, I've never had any trouble with my throat, and I set some kind of record in Las Vegas, singing 31 nights, two performances a night, without my voice ever getting tired."

Liza is a trifle hoarse right now; but it's from talking. All those interviews, publicizing the new movie, "New York, New York," which premiered this week. "It was the hardest thing I ever did," she says, "and I'm thrilled with it. If it were never shown, I'd still be thrilled - it was that exciting just to make."

And less than two weeks from now, on July 5, she opens in Chicago in a Broadway-bound musical (tentatively titled "Shine It On") which calls for her to sing 14 production numbers, interrupted by heavy dramatic scenes, without ever leaving the stage during the entire performance.

Liza, who is a semantic wonder, calls it an "If-I-can-live-through-it-it'll-be-great" sort of production. And, of course, she'll live through it. Because: "It's the best woman's show in years. You'd have to go back to 'Gypsy' and 'Call Me Madam' to find this kind of opportunity."

Althought the adjective most often used to describe Liza Minnelli is "vulnerable," she storms ahead on sheer drive, living on a heavy diet of fingernails and a built-in excitement for show business. She seems to bounce from one peak of intense enthusiasm to another; only her thinness hints of the Valleys of exhaustion in between.

Right now, her exuberance focuses on "New York, New York" in which she stars as a band singer of the 1940's.

"It's such a personal film - really 'Scenes from a Marriage' with music. When it's dark, it's very dark, and it takes left turns every once in awhile that hit you - bam! It was shot in Hollywood, which seems strange, but you have to realize that back in the 40's, the impression everyone had of New York City was created for them by Hollywood.

"Oh, I hope you'll see it. Marty (Martin) Scorsese, the director, is a genius and Bobby (Robert) De Niro is as sensual and mysterious as Montgomery Clift was, and we improvised most of the way . . . we really laid ourselves open to bare emotions. The script would give us a 'sequence,' but Marty just told us to let go and say what we felt.

"One night, we all scared hell out of each other. There was a scene where I fight with Bobby, a real fist fight trying to beat each other up, and Marty is showing us how to do it, and I'm screaming and getting emotional, and I hit my arm on something and broke all the blood vessels in it, while Bobby and Marty smashed their hands into a 1941 Buick that was part of the scene, and . . . it was so real that we all had to go to the Culver City Hospital afterward for x-rays."

As she describes it, Liza stands and swings her arms through the air, recreating the emotions as she felt them during the filming, and then slumps into the sofa of her hotel room. To Minnelli, there is intensity and an outburst of energy even in remembering . . .

"It's the energy level I work at," she says. And lives at. It's the energy level her mother worked, and lived at.

In a way, she's making up for lost time. For the first dozen years of her life, as the daughter of Garland and director Vincente Minnelli, "nobody thought I had any talent. Oh, I danced around the living room and everybody said that's sweet. But until I suddenly decided to be a singer nobody thought I really had anything."

When she was 16, her parents, and the world, noticed. "That's when I thought I sounded like mom, and retired to the bathroom to figure how to sing my way." In that same year, she was acclained for her performance in "Best Foot Forward" off-Broadway, and went on to win an award on Broadway in "Flora, the Red Menace." She's been an eager slave to the work ethic ever since.

"I always ask Jack before I take on anything," she says. "I say 'As long as I hooked you, do you mind if I pick your brains?' So he advises, but he doesn't interfere."

Liza is 31 now.

Inevitably, the question comes up: Do you want to have children?

Her answer is brief. "Yes. But we have decided that when it happens, it will happen." Eyes huge, smile small.

She'll be able to handle it.

"People have wondered about my new show, how I can stay on stage for the entire performance without a break. The answer is, I just learn to pace it. I had a lovely compliment the other day. Somebody said, 'If you can't do it, nobody can . . .'"

NEW YORK (AP) — If all goes according to plan, between 375 and 425 real estate properties valued at more than $1.5 billion will be offered for sale in the Waldorf-Astoria's Astor Salon on the afternoon of June 28.

Gathered for the event at a ticket price of $175 will be 150 buyers and sellers, representing the nation's big developers, pension funds, insurance companies, mortgage banks, managers and brokers.

No accurate forecasts can be made of how many properties will change hands, but Gerald Jackson, whose brainchild it is, claims a similar event May 6 in Houston might eventually result in sales of $100 million.

Jackson, 42, calls his events national market days, and predicts they will gradually evolve into a national real estate exchange similar to stock and commodity exchanges, including trading floors in six cities.

Simultaenous with the event he is opening offices here. Others are in Houston, Atlanta and San Francisco, and plans calls for Chicago and Los Angeles addresses too.

Parochiaid Rule Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — States may spend tax dollars to provide parochial school pupils with books and certain educational services but cannot finance field trips or lend parochial schools equipment such as maps and audio-visual aids, the Supreme Court ruled today.

In four separate opinions on a case from Ohio, the court said some forms of state aid to parochial schoolchildren do not violate the Constitution's ban against linking government und religion.

The decision appeared to be a partial victory for a group of Ohio taxpayers which challenged the Ohio law as an unconstitutional establishment of religion and a partial victory for state officials who insisted the law was valid.

Legislation passed by the Ohio Legislature in 1975 "lends" up to $8 million worth of materials and services over the next two years to students in private schools, most of them run by religious organizations.

The decision seems to give states a limited way to circumvent the Supreme Court's past decisions outlawying the use of taxpayer dollars for most forms of aid to private schools.

News Of Interest To Women

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Beauty Can't Hold Marriage

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that most "plain" women seem to have the best marriages, and most outstanding beauties are divorced, married again, divorced again, and can't make a success of a marriage? Even with the advantage of having been born beautiful they can't seem to find happiness. Why is that?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Believe it or not, natural beauty can be something of a handicap. Some beauties rely entirely on their "looks" to get them everything they want, and they neglect to develop the more durable and important qualities.

A girl may be able to "capture" a man with her beauty. Indeed she can capture more than one, if she so desires. But unless she knows how to give him more than the pleasure of just looking at her, she won't keep him long.

DEAR ABBY: My best friend (I'll call her "Thelma") met a very handsome dealer in Las Vegas two years ago. (I'll call him "Ken.") Well, Thelma and Ken flipped for each other and have been practically living together ever since. Ken told Thelma from the start that he and his wife had been separated for about 10 years, but that she was Catholic and would never give him a divorce.

Thelma gave up all her friends and devoted all her time and attention to Ken, who gave her this big story about how he had to devote two nights a week to "an old girl friend" he had known for years.

Thelma is all torn up because she no longer wants to share Ken with this old friend. Is there a solution?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I am puzzled as to why you are trying to help Thelma work out an adulterous dilemma with a two-timing dude like Ken. As I see it, all Ken loves is his appetite for variety. So tell Thelma that she can't win in this game because Ken is holding all the aces, plus two queens. He's probably got the deck stacked and is dealing from the bottom, to boot.

DEAR ABBY: When I married my wife 10 years ago I had a moustache. I kept it for two years, and she never complained about it. Then I shaved it off, and she told me to please leave it off because she never liked it. Okay, so I left it off, but here's the problem:

Every year for the last six years we have a celebration in town called "Frontier Days," which lasts for a whole month. Nearly every man in town grows a beard, moustache or goatee just to get into the spirit of the celebration.

Every year I go through the same thing. It takes me three weeks to get my moustache grown out, and I wear it for a month because I want to be one of the guys and I enjoy it.

As soon as I start growing the moustache, my wife refuses to kiss me, love me or have anything to do with me at bedtime.

Well, seven weeks is a long time for a fun-loving healthy guy like me to go without a kiss. Any suggestions?

MISSING SOMETHING

DEAR MISSING: Get a false moustache that can be glued on and removed easily. That way you can participate in "Frontier Days" without missing anything at night.

Food For Thought

Cooking Is The In Thing

STUFFED ZUCCHINI

Only half a pound of ground beef is called for.

2 zucchini, each ½ pound butter or margarine

½ of a small onion, minced (about 2 tablespoons)

½ pound ground beef

4 thin slices (⅜-inch) bread, decrusted and crumbled (1 and 1-3rd cups)

Several sprigs parsley, minced

¾ teaspoon salt

⅛ teaspoon pepper

½ cup grated cheddar cheese

Cover whole, unprepared zucchini with boiling water and boil in a covered saucepan for about 8 minutes. Cut in half lengthwise and scoop out flesh leaving shells about ¼-inch thick; turn shells flesh side down to drain. Drain scooped-out pulp and cut up fairly fine.

In a little hot butter in a 10-inch skillet cook the onion and beef, crumbling the meat with a fork until it loses its red color; stir in the pulp, half the bread crumbs, the parsley, salt and pepper. Pile into shells.

In a small skillet melt 1tablespoon butter; off heat stir in the remaining crumbs and the cheese; sprinkle over meat mixture in shells. Bake in a very shallow foil-lined pan in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned — about 25 minutes. Makes 4 small or 2 large servings.

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

I must warn you that if I seem a bit more incoherent than usual this time I do have a reasonable reason. You see, our little 2 year old granddaughter Monica is having surgery this morning and "Min" (as she calls me) is rather discombobulated. While it is not considered an earth shaking process any surgery is frightening in my line of thinking. I will be so relieved when the phone rings and we get the message that all has gone well. Marc and Debbie Easterday, the parents, are at Childrens Hospital and will stay there until their little one is released to come home which is expected to be only a brief stay.

We were happy to hear this morning that our good neighbors Bertha Porter should be coming home quite soon from Berger Hospital where she has been a patient for a week. Getting everything in readiness for the nonagenarian's homecoming is her companion in residence Lillian Hess. Lillian was very excited about grandma Porter getting to come home.

More excitement recently for the Porter family has been the arrival of Nathan Lawrence Reid. He made his debut June 13. The happy parents are Bruce and Jeannie Shannon Reid. Grandmother on the paternal side is Joan Reid Morris; maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shannon of Derby. Paternal great grandparents are Herman and Garnet Porter and the beaming great great grandmother is our own Bertha Porter. What a lilt was in her voice the day she reported the event.

Our family was delighted to have Indiana cousins Bud, Bernadine and Brian Barker spend a recent week end (like a week ago and I forgot to mention it).

Our household is undergoing somewhat of an adjustment with the addition of darling dimpled daughter Becki here for the summer from her OU studies. She is among those fortunate enough to have gained employment at the local DuPont plant which makes the financial picture for 1977-78's schooling much brighter. Also in that bright picture are Jan Long, Cindy Beatty, Jamey Looney and Vince Redman locally. Becki is one of those students who seeks the almighty A grade and so far has been very successful but she has no qualms about dropping a course if she finds things not going too well which usually puts her under the required credit hours to make the Dean's list. Mother and daughter have some disagreement over this practice since mother thinks it more important to carry more hours and daughter wants grades. Guess who is not winning!

William and Helen Cordray of Lake Park, Fla. which is situated near West Palm Beach are in Ohio spending time with daughter Grace Ann, her hubby Ellwyn Hulse images Lori and Kevin of our community and with their son Steve Cordray and his family of Lithopolis. Mrs. Cordray is a sister to Mabel (Mrs. Noah) List also of our vicinity.

---

Mail lady Maxine Sykes had Monday and Tuesday off because she and spouse Jim were expecting daughter Vicki and her mate Dr. Bill Conrad along with friends down from Pickerington. This time of year, especially, the country is most inviting.

I have a real appreciation for those who garden well — my talents are not in that direction. In our town fine specimens of gardening can be observed at Grandma Olive Shaw's, Rocky Mahorney's, A. J. Cook, Roy Anderson, Wilson Thomas among others.

The winning Drummonds are at it again! District Grange contests were held Monday night in Lawrence County at Symmes High School and walking away with first place in the age group 5-9 was Joy Lynn Drummond. She will now play her piano solo in state competition during the Ohio State Fair.

Karen Drummond's piano solo took place first in the 10-14 age group and the Drummond Family Group comprised of Louise, Susan, Karen, Sandy and Joy captured first in the category with a medly of songs.

In the over 20 age group Steve Speakman of Clarksburg won in two areas solo and a reading. Steve is a son of Dick and Judy Speakman and a grandson of one of Williamsport's nicest ladies, Mrs. Una Higman. Eleven counties make up a district for the contests. All winners will compete at the Ohio State Fair.

A major topic of conversation in our village this week has been the Monday night performance of "Tecumseh." Several of the 84 who attended from here had been there before and have compared performances with this year's production getting lots of favorable comment. For those who were seeing it for the first time it was truly a worthwhile experience. Bente Lund, an exchange student from Denmark, found it to be absolutely marvelous and was thrilled beyond words to have the opportunity to be in the audience. In our group was also Karen (Mrs. Grady) Smalley of East Lansing, Michigan who found it to be an exciting evening. Karen and her three, Jon, Joe and Susan left Wednesday after several days visiting with grandmother Gertrude Schleich, Aunt Doris and Uncle Johnny Reynolds and other relatives. The family hopes to return visit in August and go see "Tecumseh" again.

This was the fourth performance for Amy and I to attend and without doubt the best. Anyone who has not been there please let nothing stop you from going this season. Of course, the frogs get a bit "chirpy" late in the evening and a person would like to see them on a platter as frog legs but all in all they can be tolerated since the action on stage is so absorbing as to hold your total interest.

A fine program was presented by Vacation Bible School students during worship hour last Sunday at the UM Church. Our new minister the Rev. Gerald Niswender (pronounced nice-win-dur) was in the pulpit for his first message. The Rev. Gerald and his wife Louise come to us from Lewisburg where our former minister the Rev. Richard Crosby and wife Marybelle have transferred. Louise is a native of Coshocton and the Rev. is a native of Wayne and Ashland Counties. Both were reared on farms and the Rev.'s parents are still living with his father being 91 and his mother 87. They are the parents of a son Philip who teaches school in Chillicothe and they have a three year old granddaughter who just recently had a birthday. The Niswenders have served the church in Circleville (EUB), Nellie, and South Point to name a few. Come extend the warm hand of cordial welcome to the Niswenders this Sunday.

Deercreek Dam Days Festival financial reporting meeting to be held Wednesday June 29, American Legion Hall, 8 p.m. All local organizations are requested to have a report (those who participate during the festival for money making that is). Other vital matters on the agenda are amendments to the by-laws and election of officers. The meeting is open to anyone who wishes to attend.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care. Think About: Happiness multiplies when divided with others.

Widow Files Suit In Fatal Blaze

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The widow of singer John Davidson's music director, who was one of the 162 persons killed in the fire that destroyed the Beverly Hills Supper Club, has filed a $14 million damage suit against owners and operators of the nightclub.

The suit filed Thursday brought the total to $95 million in suits following the May 28 fire. All the suits name the owners and operators of the club in Southgate, Ky.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court on behalf of Marguerite H. Herro, 24, widow of Douglas George Herro, 27, of Canoga Park, Calif.

The suit alleges negligence and carelessness in design, operation and inspection of the nightclub.

Davidson, 36, credited Herro with getting him out of the fire just before show time. He said Herro, who also conducted the orchestra during Davidson's performances, was killed when he rushed back to save others trapped in the fire.

News Of Interest To Women

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Beauty Can't Hold Marriage

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that most "plain" women seem to have the best marriages, and most outstanding beauties are divorced, married again, divorced again, and can't make a success of a marriage? Even with the advantage of having been born beautiful they can't seem to find happiness. Why is that?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Believe it or not, natural beauty can be something of a handicap. Some beauties rely entirely on their "looks" to get them everything they want, and they neglect to develop the more durable and important qualities.

A girl may be able to "capture" a man with her beauty. Indeed she can capture more than one, if she so desires. But unless she knows how to give him more than the pleasure of just looking at her, she won't keep him long.

DEAR ABBY: My best friend (I'll call her "Thelma") met a very handsome dealer in Las Vegas two years ago. (I'll call him "Ken.") Well, Thelma and Ken flipped for each other and have been practically living together ever since. Ken told Thelma from the start that he and his wife had been separated for about 10 years, but that she was Catholic and would never give him a divorce.

Thelma gave up all her friends and devoted all her time and attention to Ken, who gave her this big story about how he had to devote two nights a week to "an old girl friend" he had known for years.

Thelma is all torn up because she no longer wants to share Ken with this old friend. Is there a solution?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I am puzzled as to why you are trying to help Thelma work out an adulterous dilemma with a two-timing dude like Ken. As I see it, all Ken loves is his appetite for variety. So tell Thelma that she can't win in this game because Ken is holding all the aces, plus two queens. He's probably got the deck stacked and is dealing from the bottom, to boot.

DEAR ABBY: When I married my wife 10 years ago I had a moustache. I kept it for two years, and she never complained about it. Then I shaved it off, and she told me to please leave it off because she never liked it. Okay, so I left it off, but here's the problem:

Every year for the last six years we have a celebration in town called "Frontier Days," which lasts for a whole month. Nearly every man in town grows a beard, moustache or goatee just to get into the spirit of the celebration.

Every year I go through the same thing. It takes me three weeks to get my moustache grown out, and I wear it for a month because I want to be one of the guys and I enjoy it.

As soon as I start growing the moustache, my wife refuses to kiss me, love me or have anything to do with me at bedtime.

Well, seven weeks is a long time for a fun-loving healthy guy like me to go without a kiss. Any suggestions?

MISSING SOMETHING

DEAR MISSING: Get a false moustache that can be glued on and removed easily. That way you can participate in "Frontier Days" without missing anything at night.

Food For Thought

Cooking Is The In Thing

STUFFED ZUCCHINI

Only half a pound of ground beef is called for.

2 zucchini, each ½ pound butter or margarine

½ of a small onion, minced (about 2 tablespoons)

½ pound ground beef

4 thin slices (⅜-inch) bread, decrusted and crumbled (1 and 1-3rd cups)

Several sprigs parsley, minced

¾ teaspoon salt

⅛ teaspoon pepper

½ cup grated cheddar cheese

Cover whole, unprepared zucchini with boiling water and boil in a covered saucepan for about 8 minutes. Cut in half lengthwise and scoop out flesh leaving shells about ¼-inch thick; turn shells flesh side down to drain. Drain scooped-out pulp and cut up fairly fine.

In a little hot butter in a 10-inch skillet cook the onion and beef, crumbling the meat with a fork until it loses its red color; stir in the pulp, half the bread crumbs, the parsley, salt and pepper. Pile into shells.

In a small skillet melt 1tablespoon butter; off heat stir in the remaining crumbs and the cheese; sprinkle over meat mixture in shells. Bake in a very shallow foil-lined pan in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned — about 25 minutes. Makes 4 small or 2 large servings.

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

I must warn you that if I seem a bit more incoherent than usual this time I do have a reasonable reason. You see, our little 2 year old granddaughter Monica is having surgery this morning and "Min" (as she calls me) is rather discombobulated. While it is not considered an earth shaking process any surgery is frightening in my line of thinking. I will be so relieved when the phone rings and we get the message that all has gone well. Marc and Debbie Easterday, the parents, are at Childrens Hospital and will stay there until their little one is released to come home which is expected to be only a brief stay.

We were happy to hear this morning that our good neighbors Bertha Porter should be coming home quite soon from Berger Hospital where she has been a patient for a week. Getting everything in readiness for the nonagenarian's homecoming is her companion in residence Lillian Hess. Lillian was very excited about grandma Porter getting to come home.

More excitement recently for the Porter family has been the arrival of Nathan Lawrence Reid. He made his debut June 13. The happy parents are Bruce and Jeannie Shannon Reid. Grandmother on the paternal side is Joan Reid Morris; maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shannon of Derby. Paternal great grandparents are Herman and Garnet Porter and the beaming great great grandmother is our own Bertha Porter. What a lilt was in her voice the day she reported the event.

Our family was delighted to have Indiana cousins Bud, Bernadine and Brian Barker spend a recent week end (like a week ago and I forgot to mention it).

Our household is undergoing somewhat of an adjustment with the addition of darling dimpled daughter Becki here for the summer from her OU studies. She is among those fortunate enough to have gained employment at the local DuPont plant which makes the financial picture for 1977-78's schooling much brighter. Also in that bright picture are Jan Long, Cindy Beatty, Jamey Looney and Vince Redman locally. Becki is one of those students who seeks the almighty A grade and so far has been very successful but she has no qualms about dropping a course if she finds things not going too well which usually puts her under the required credit hours to make the Dean's list. Mother and daughter have some disagreement over this practice since mother thinks it more important to carry more hours and daughter wants grades. Guess who is not winning!

William and Helen Cordray of Lake Park, Fla. which is situated near West Palm Beach are in Ohio spending time with daughter Grace Ann, her hubby Ellwyn Hulse images Lori and Kevin of our community and with their son Steve Cordray and his family of Lithopolis. Mrs. Cordray is a sister to Mabel (Mrs. Noah) List also of our vicinity.

---

Mail lady Maxine Sykes had Monday and Tuesday off because she and spouse Jim were expecting daughter Vicki and her mate Dr. Bill Conrad along with friends down from Pickerington. This time of year, especially, the country is most inviting.

I have a real appreciation for those who garden well — my talents are not in that direction. In our town fine specimens of gardening can be observed at Grandma Olive Shaw's, Rocky Mahorney's, A. J. Cook, Roy Anderson, Wilson Thomas among others.

The winning Drummonds are at it again! District Grange contests were held Monday night in Lawrence County at Symmes High School and walking away with first place in the age group 5-9 was Joy Lynn Drummond. She will now play her piano solo in state competition during the Ohio State Fair.

Karen Drummond's piano solo took place first in the 10-14 age group and the Drummond Family Group comprised of Louise, Susan, Karen, Sandy and Joy captured first in the category with a medly of songs.

In the over 20 age group Steve Speakman of Clarksburg won in two areas solo and a reading. Steve is a son of Dick and Judy Speakman and a grandson of one of Williamsport's nicest ladies, Mrs. Una Higman. Eleven counties make up a district for the contests. All winners will compete at the Ohio State Fair.

A major topic of conversation in our village this week has been the Monday night performance of "Tecumseh." Several of the 84 who attended from here had been there before and have compared performances with this year's production getting lots of favorable comment. For those who were seeing it for the first time it was truly a worthwhile experience. Bente Lund, an exchange student from Denmark, found it to be absolutely marvelous and was thrilled beyond words to have the opportunity to be in the audience. In our group was also Karen (Mrs. Grady) Smalley of East Lansing, Michigan who found it to be an exciting evening. Karen and her three, Jon, Joe and Susan left Wednesday after several days visiting with grandmother Gertrude Schleich, Aunt Doris and Uncle Johnny Reynolds and other relatives. The family hopes to return visit in August and go see "Tecumseh" again.

This was the fourth performance for Amy and I to attend and without doubt the best. Anyone who has not been there please let nothing stop you from going this season. Of course, the frogs get a bit "chirpy" late in the evening and a person would like to see them on a platter as frog legs but all in all they can be tolerated since the action on stage is so absorbing as to hold your total interest.

A fine program was presented by Vacation Bible School students during worship hour last Sunday at the UM Church. Our new minister the Rev. Gerald Niswender (pronounced nice-win-dur) was in the pulpit for his first message. The Rev. Gerald and his wife Louise come to us from Lewisburg where our former minister the Rev. Richard Crosby and wife Marybelle have transferred. Louise is a native of Coshocton and the Rev. is a native of Wayne and Ashland Counties. Both were reared on farms and the Rev.'s parents are still living with his father being 91 and his mother 87. They are the parents of a son Philip who teaches school in Chillicothe and they have a three year old granddaughter who just recently had a birthday. The Niswenders have served the church in Circleville (EUB), Nellie, and South Point to name a few. Come extend the warm hand of cordial welcome to the Niswenders this Sunday.

Deercreek Dam Days Festival financial reporting meeting to be held Wednesday June 29, American Legion Hall, 8 p.m. All local organizations are requested to have a report (those who participate during the festival for money making that is). Other vital matters on the agenda are amendments to the by-laws and election of officers. The meeting is open to anyone who wishes to attend.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care. Think About: Happiness multiplies when divided with others.

Widow Files Suit In Fatal Blaze

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The widow of singer John Davidson's music director, who was one of the 162 persons killed in the fire that destroyed the Beverly Hills Supper Club, has filed a $14 million damage suit against owners and operators of the nightclub.

The suit filed Thursday brought the total to $95 million in suits following the May 28 fire. All the suits name the owners and operators of the club in Southgate, Ky.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court on behalf of Marguerite H. Herro, 24, widow of Douglas George Herro, 27, of Canoga Park, Calif.

The suit alleges negligence and carelessness in design, operation and inspection of the nightclub.

Davidson, 36, credited Herro with getting him out of the fire just before show time. He said Herro, who also conducted the orchestra during Davidson's performances, was killed when he rushed back to save others trapped in the fire.

Badlands Offer View Of Nature At Work

BADLANDS NATIONAL MONUMENT

By DEIDRE POLING
For The Herald

The Badlands National Monument located in southwestern South Dakota offers the tourist a spectacular view of nature at work.

Caused by the weathering of sand and ash, the peaks and canyons of the Badlands creates a photographer's paradise. Around each bend in the road a new breathtaking scene appears. The rock, layered in colors of red, orange, yellow, white, and tan takes on different shapes and forms as the traveller progresses through the park.

Grasslands and hills offer a pleasant contrast. Wildlife abounds. Antelope, buffalo, deer, coyotes, and prairie dogs are commonly seen by the tourist.

The highway through the Badlands provides a scenic view of the heart of the national park. Vista pull offs are provided at scenic overlooks.

Located near the Badlands is Mt. Rushmore, a memorial to the four presidents, Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. This gigantic sculpture, created under the direction of the late Gutzon Borglum, is one of the largest pieces ever completed. Each face is between 60 feet and 70 feet high and is carved in great detail.

The memorial signifies the achievements of the United States as symbolized by the four national leaders.

Washington represents the founding of the Union, Jefferson the Declaration of Independence, Lincoln the preservation of the Union and Roosevelt the expansion of the country.

The Black Hills Passion Play, located in Spearfish, is only a short drive from the Badlands. A cast of 250 recreates the dramatic events of the last seven days of the life of Christ. Majestic Lookout Mountain forms a perfect backdrop for the huge outdoor amphitheatre where the play is presented.

Another tourist attraction not far from the Badlands is the Mine. The mine, located in Lead, is one of the largest producing gold mines in the Western Hemisphere. It has been operating continuously since 1878, except for a period during World War II.

Just north of Lead is the infamous Deadwood and its Boot Hill Cemetery. This cemetery contains the graves of Wild Bill Hickok, Calamity Jane and Preacher Smith. Deadwood also holds the well-known days of '76 rodeo in early August. Featured with the rodeo is an old timers parade and various gold rush scenes.

Washington represents the founding of the Union, Jefferson the Declaration of Independence, Lincoln the preservation of the Union and Roosevelt the expansion of the country.

The Black Hills Passion Play, located in Spearfish, is only a short drive from the Badlands. A cast of 250 recreates the dramatic events of the last seven days of the life of Christ. Majestic Lookout Mountain forms a perfect backdrop for the huge outdoor amphitheatre where the play is presented.

Another tourist attraction not far from the Badlands is the Mine. The mine, located in Lead, is one of the largest producing gold mines in the Western Hemisphere. It has been operating continuously since 1878, except for a period during World War II.

Just north of Lead is the infamous Deadwood and its Boot Hill Cemetery. This cemetery contains the graves of Wild Bill Hickok, Calamity Jane and Preacher Smith. Deadwood also holds the well-known days of '76 rodeo in early August. Featured with the rodeo is an old timers parade and various gold rush scenes.

Dodgers Top Reds

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Tom Seaver was finally on the mound in Riverfront Stadium when the Cincinnati Reds lost. The only problem is that Seaver now pitches for the Reds.

A three-time Cy Young Award winner, Seaver made his first appearance in Cincinnati since being obtained by the Reds from the New York Mets last week. But he lost to Los Angeles 3-2, dropping the Reds 9½ games back of the Dodgers in the National league West race.

Although he won his first start in a Cinicnnati Reds' uniform, blanking Montreal on three hits, the last game Seaver won in Cincinnati was in 1972.

Tommy John, 8-4, hurled the Dodgers to victory, pitching out of jams in the seventh and eighth innings.

Seaver pitched eight innings, allowing all three Los Angeles runs on seven hits while striking out four.

John scattered 10 hits while Steve Garvey drove in two runs with a first-inning single and Rick Monday singled home the eventual winning run in the sixth.

In other NL games Friday, Chicago blanked New York 5-0, Atlanta edged San Diego 9-8 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh nipped Montreal 6-5 in 10 innings, Houston squeezed by San Francisco 6-5 in 11 innings and St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 7-1.

Chris Evert Edges New Girl Wonder

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - "It was the toughest match of my life, psychologically," said Chris Evert after meeting tennis' new wonder girl, 14-year-old Tracy Austin on Wimbledon's hallow center court.

"Even playing Billie Jean King is a piece of cake in comparison" said Chrissie, who needed all the composure of a great champion to control her swirling emotions as she stepped onto the most famous court in tennis Friday and played a miniature version of herself.

With 15,000 fans packed around the center court and hundreds more watching the scoreboard outside, the defending champion was engaged in long, testing rallies by the youngster from Rolling Hills, Calif. which the 6-1, 6-1 score in Miss Evert's favor did not reveal.

Miss Austin was the center of attention, her teeth in schoolgirl braces and her hair tied back, as she contested the third-round women's singles match against the reigning queen of tennis.

For too long, Miss Evert has been cast as the unemotional "Ice Maiden" of tennis.

But those close to the 22-year-old from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., says she is a warm, considerate person. And that's what showed Friday.

She told Tracy how to curtsy to the Royal Box, and after the match put her arm around her, and they curtsied again.

Dodgers Top Reds

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Tom Seaver was finally on the mound in Riverfront Stadium when the Cincinnati Reds lost. The only problem is that Seaver now pitches for the Reds.

A three-time Cy Young Award winner, Seaver made his first appearance in Cincinnati since being obtained by the Reds from the New York Mets last week. But he lost to Los Angeles 3-2, dropping the Reds 9½ games back of the Dodgers in the National league West race.

Although he won his first start in a Cinicnnati Reds' uniform, blanking Montreal on three hits, the last game Seaver won in Cincinnati was in 1972.

Tommy John, 8-4, hurled the Dodgers to victory, pitching out of jams in the seventh and eighth innings.

Seaver pitched eight innings, allowing all three Los Angeles runs on seven hits while striking out four.

John scattered 10 hits while Steve Garvey drove in two runs with a first-inning single and Rick Monday singled home the eventual winning run in the sixth.

In other NL games Friday, Chicago blanked New York 5-0, Atlanta edged San Diego 9-8 in 10 innings, Pittsburgh nipped Montreal 6-5 in 10 innings, Houston squeezed by San Francisco 6-5 in 11 innings and St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 7-1.

Chris Evert Edges New Girl Wonder

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - "It was the toughest match of my life, psychologically," said Chris Evert after meeting tennis' new wonder girl, 14-year-old Tracy Austin on Wimbledon's hallow center court.

"Even playing Billie Jean King is a piece of cake in comparison" said Chrissie, who needed all the composure of a great champion to control her swirling emotions as she stepped onto the most famous court in tennis Friday and played a miniature version of herself.

With 15,000 fans packed around the center court and hundreds more watching the scoreboard outside, the defending champion was engaged in long, testing rallies by the youngster from Rolling Hills, Calif. which the 6-1, 6-1 score in Miss Evert's favor did not reveal.

Miss Austin was the center of attention, her teeth in schoolgirl braces and her hair tied back, as she contested the third-round women's singles match against the reigning queen of tennis.

For too long, Miss Evert has been cast as the unemotional "Ice Maiden" of tennis.

But those close to the 22-year-old from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., says she is a warm, considerate person. And that's what showed Friday.

She told Tracy how to curtsy to the Royal Box, and after the match put her arm around her, and they curtsied again.

Andy North Leads Western Open Tilt

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) - By day, burly Andy North appears in the pink of health as he struts up and down the four miles of the Butler National Golf Club course. But for a half hour each night, he can barely move.

"I've had some muscle spasms in the last couple of months, but it seems to be getting better. The last couple of weeks I've been in traction every night. It isn't comfortable,'' but comfortable or not, the therapy apparently has worked.

The 210-pound Wisconsin native birdied three of his last four holes Friday to fashion a two-under-par 70 and join Tom Watson as co-leader of the Western Open with a score of five-under-par 139 after two rounds.

North said he woke up with the problem one morning after the Masters in April but hasn't taken a break from the pro tour to rest.

He is seeking his first victory since joining the tour in 1973.

Watson, the year's top money-winner and owner of three 1977 tour triumphs, including the Masters, also enjoyed himself in the hot, humid weather that blanketed Butler.

'It was a good round. I hit the ball pretty close to the hole and it was a lot of fun,'' he said. "I putted exceptionally well.'' Watson, who shot 69 to go with his opening-day 70, sank four birdie putts from 12 feet and beyond.

Thursday's co-leader, Gary McCord, shot a 73 and was one stroke back at 140.

McCord, playing after Watson and North were in the clubhouse, was tied for the lead at five under par when he put his tee shot in the water at the 14th hole. Then he needed two shots to get out of a bunker bordering the green and saved his double boggey with a 15-foot putt. But he got one stroke back with a 25-foot birdie putt on the 17th hole. "I hit it really good in spots. Then I hit it funny. My consistency wasn't there today,'' he said.

Bruce Lietzke, who shared the first-round lead, soared to 80 and a 147 total. Bill Mallon, in third with a 68 Thursday, shot 78 Friday.

Hancock, 23, graduated last year from the University of Florida and is playing his first tournament as a regular tour member.

Stingers To Join NHL

CINCINNATI (AP) - They popped the champagne corks and shut down the switchboard early at Riverfront Coliseum. The Cincinnati Stingers celebrate Christmas early with the news that the team would shortly be a member of the National Hockey League.

The news of the long-awaited merger between the NHL and the World Hockey Association came out of the NHL meeting in Chicago Friday.

"I think it's excellent, " said Bill DeWitt Jr., Stingers executive vice president and a prime mover for the merger.

DeWitt was elated with the NHL plan to create a fourth division for the WHA teams that will enter the NHL. If six are selected, they will play each other with the top four going to the Stanley Cup Playoffs, the Stingers indicated.

Robidoux Wins Match

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — He wasn't complaining, but Art Robidoux of Brunswick said he still didn't care for match play after emerging as the best of some 400 golfers originally entered in the Mid-America Junior Open.

"I'm a much better medal player,'' said the 17-year-old Robidoux, who defeated Mike Knox of Gahanna 4 and 2 Friday to capture the championship.

"I keep around par, and if you can do that, you'll be in the top five or so in most tournaments,'' the Parma Padua High School senior explained.

Robidoux played true to form Friday, finishing two over par for 34 holes on the Possum Run course. Knox was three over.

Knox led Robidoux 1-up after the first nine of the 36-hole match. But Robidoux pulled even on the 10th and took the lead for good on the 16th.

Winners of other flights were: A, Eddie Beach of Coshocton; B, Todd Korbas of Shelby; C, Mitch Allensbach of Oxford; D, Bret Heinicke of Fairfield, and E, Bill Moss of Fairborn.

A.J. Foyt Leads Field

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) - "People talk about me retiring,'' A.J. Foyt began. "I'll tell you, it's hassles like this that make me feel like retiring from racing.''

The tempestrous Foyt found himself once again in the eye of a storm of controversy as he parepared to lead the field to the start of Sunday's $400,000 Schaefer 500.

"It's a good think I enjoy racing so much still, because if I didn't I sure wouldn't put up with all this,'' Foyt said during an extraordinary 45-minute meeting he called with the press Friday at Pocono International Raceway. "I feel like 'put the car on the trailer and say hell with it. ' ''

The hassle Foyt referred to centers on the decision of Citicorp Services to terminate its sponsorship of the U.S. Auto Club Indianapolis car circuit, a move that could cost the series $350,000-$400,000- by the end of 1978.

Fred R. Stecher, Citicorp chairman, said Foyt's behavior after being booed during qualifying Thursday "was the straw that broke our back.'' Stecher said Foyt made an obscene gesture to the crowd, and behaved in a manner "Detrimental to the sport of auto racing.''

Foyt, who won the pole position with a speed of 189.47 miles per hour, denied making any such gesture.

Stecher criticized USAC President Dick King for failing to reprimand Foyt.

Stecher said he was considering legal action against Foyt, accusing him of preventing Citicorp from exercising the terms of its contract with USAC. Foyt said he might sue, too.

Stecher and Foyt have been at odds already this season. Foyt took the Citicorp patch off his uniform and decal from his car after Stecher chewed out Foyt's sponsor, Jim Gilmore, for Foyt's actions at a race in Phoenix three months ago.

Clever Kevin Porter of the Detroit Pistons topped all playmakers in the NBA for a single-game performance in the 1976-77 season. He had 20 assists in one game against the Boston Celtics.

Thornton, Tribe Rip Tigers, 4-2

DETROIT (AP) — Andre Thornton has been a thorn in the paw of the Detroit Tigers-even though overall he's barely hitting his weight.

"He killed me, man. He all by himself,'' said Detroit pitcher Fernando Arroyo. His head drooped in dejection as he spoke of the 6-foot-2, 205-pound Cleveland first baseman's performance Friday night against the Tigers.

Thornton, batting .196, at gametime, drove in four runs with a pair of homers and a sacrifice fly to lead the Indians to a 4-2 victory over Detroit. It was their ninth consecutive triumph.

It all began last weekend in Cleveland when the Tribe swept a four-game series against the Tigers. Thornton clubbed three homers.

Of his nine homers this year, five are against Detroit. He has eight hits in 18 at bats versus the Tigers for a .444 mark. Yet his season average is a mere .209 now.

Mark "The Bird'' Fidrych was out to stop the Indians' surge today. He was after his fifth straight triumph against two losses. Ex-Tiger Pat Dobson, 2-6, was the Cleveland probable pitcher.

"We've got a couple guys who can pop the ball, but he's been pounding it the last week and a half,'' new Indians' Manager Jeff Torborg said of Thornton.

Thornton started early in the season, but was benched for a long time by Manager Frank Robinson, who was fired last weekend.

'We're not a long ball hitting club essentially,'' Torborg said, "and when you have a guy like that you have to use him.''

Arroyo, 5-5, gave up just five hits to winner Jim Bibb's eight. The last time anyone hit two home runs off him in the same game, he said, was in Class A minor league ball.

"I thought they were decent pitches,'' the affable right-handed hurler said of his gopher balls to Thornton - a right-handed hitter.

Thornton said Detroit "just happened to be the team we were playing against'' when he got hot.

"I feel a lot better now than I did at the start of the season,'' he said. "Rocky Colavito helped correct a few things wrong with my swing. It's nice to know I'm going to be playing every day.''

Torborg said coach Colavito, former Indians and Tigers slugging star, adjusted Thornton's batting stance and grip.

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Some complicated situations indicated. Be sure you have all the facts before making decisions. Whether day is for recreation or you have strenuous tasks, be philosophical.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A satisfactory day indicated, but the good will of others will be important. Stress your amiable side, therefore, and speak abruptly to no one.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): A day in which you must avoid extremes: They will tempt in various forms. Be especially careful in social activities.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): What you think will be as important as how you act. Control emotions, shun pessimists and let your natural exuberance for living shine in the right corners.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Neither expect nor demand too much and you will be surprised at your allover returns. Romance and travel highly favored.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Neither fear to step into a new or changed picture, nor step in before you are ready. Know your ground sufficiently and the views of associates, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Despite a few obstacles, many benefits and new means of attainment are indicated. Especially favored: romance, travel, family interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A new surge of energy should carry you far along the road to success and recognition. But be sure of your goals. Don't go off on tangents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): If you aim straight and do not permit emotions or a biased viewpoint to throw you off course, you will know how to cope with ALL, not some situations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Do not let a personal disappointment mar your overall perspective. Continue to aim for high goals. Your adeptness, know-how and intuition should be potent now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Just the right day to bring off something new in your occupational area. Move fast! Evening hours favor romance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Look for some unusually pleasant communications from those at a distance; also new contracts which could prove invaluable in a business way.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with unusual versatility and could succeed in almost any field of your choice but you often lack self-confidence, thus holding yourself back through doubts and fears. Try to curb such apprehension since there is no limit to the successes you can attain once you find your niche and stay stalwartly on the path to achievement. You are more musically gifted and have more sense of drama than many other Cancerians, thus could make a brilliant success in either field. But this artistic bent does not preclude solid attainment in other lines, such as business, finance, mathematics or science. You are an idealist; at times given to too much introspection. Try to stress the outgoing side of your personality. Birthdate of: Wm. (Lord Kelvin) Thomson, Brit. scientist; Pearl S. Buck, famed writer on China; Peter Lorre, actor.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

You are more musically gifted and have more sense of drama than many other Cancerians, thus could make a brilliant success in either field. But this artistic bent does not preclude solid attainment in other lines, such as business, finance, mathematics or science. You are an idealist; at times given to too much introspection. Try to stress the outgoing side of your personality. Birthdate of: Wm. (Lord Kelvin) Thomson, Brit. scientist; Pearl S. Buck, famed writer on China; Peter Lorre, actor.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Air Rules Costing GM Billion Yearly

CINCINNATI (AP) — The vice chairman of General Motors Corp. says government regulations cost GM about $1 billion annually, mainly because of the Clean Air Act of 1970.

"I'm not saying we shouldn't have regulations," said Richard L. Terrell, a native of Dayton, Ohio, who was here Thursday to address the national convention of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, Inc. (VICA).

"But somewhere along the line somebody in government has to look at the cost effectiveness of what it is requiring," said the Detroit, Mich. based executive.

Terrell, 58, oversees the automotive giant's executives, staff development programs and keeps tuned to changes in laws, customer preferences, engineering, the public and GM employes.

Terrell said he began tabulating costs of dealing with federal regulations after 1972. He said GM spent $1.3 billion in 1974, $968 million in 1975 and "about $1 billion in 1976."

"In terms of total manpower, this meant we had somewhere from 22,000 to 25,000 of our best people working on these problems, people who might have been working on other things," said Terrell.

Terrell said the Clean Air Act has been a vexing problem for GM. "This has meant thousands of miles of road tests and inspections that are essential."

Terrell said he believes a "scientific and businesslike" study on the effects of pollution on people should be made "before the decisions are made" by government that will cost industry billions of dollars.

Terrell noted the GM has made signficant changes in personnel in keeping with the times. Some developments include:

—The number of women entering the General Motors Institute, GM's engineering university of 2,800, is now 33 per cent and the number of freshman minority students is 20 per cent.

—A corporate-level consumer relations and service department has been created with its own vice president.

—A drug rehabilitation program has been initiated at several plants as an extension of the alcoholic rehabilitation project begun in 1972. That program claims a 60 per cent success rate, he said.

Policemen Open Ticketing Drive

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Police here are gambling that the public reaction to a "ticket-writing spree" will encourage the city council to adopt a proposed $2,500 pay hike for most policemen.

Officers began enforcing the letter of the law Wednesday night and by Thursday one department spokesman said the number of parking and moving violations was "1,000 per cent" above normal levels.

Tickets were issued for violations which included dirty license plates, jaywalking and failure to have auto registrations signed in ink.

Foster Selected For School Job

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Sue Foster was named Friday as acting superintendent of the Athens Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, effective July 2.

She replaces Floyd H. Sarff, who was transferred. Mrs. Foster has been assistant superintendent for 1½ years.

Treasury Chief, Wife Separated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and his wife, Eileen, are separating after 26 years of marriage.

A Treasury spokesman said Thursday that the Blumenthals' decision "was reached by mutual consent and after long and searching thought."

The Blumenthals have three grown daughters.

The Blumenthals were married Sept. 8, 1951. Mrs. Blumenthal, who has a doctorate in education, has a scientific research job here.

Fear More Coal Strike Violence

STEARNS, Ky. (AP) - "We're expecting more trouble just about any minute," McCreary County Sheriff Joe Pery said of an 11-month-old strike at the Stearns Coal Co.'s Jestus Mine. "I'd say the situation is very tense right now."

The mine, which resembles a bullet-riddled battlefield in many respects, was quiet on Friday, authorities said.

On Thursday, a 27-year-old miner was shot in the leg. A private security guard was arrested in connected with the shooting.

The miner, Ray Hamlin, became the fourth gunshot victim since the 140 miners went on strike last July. The first three were guards.

"The picketers are expecting more trouble and they're expecting the same game tonight." Perry said late Friday night. "I can tell by the attitude of the men that they're expecting some kind of trouble. I can tell by their uneasiness."

Perry said eight men were picketing the southeastern Kentucky mine late Friday night.

"I don't know the number of guards," he said. "They're in a compound behind an eight-foot fence."

Earlier, Perry said, "Hardly a night goes by when there's not any gunfire. And now that a union man's been shot, I'm afraid it's going to get worse."

Search Nets CSI Walkaway

Pickaway County Sheriff's Detective Don Thompson led an extensive search of Circleville late Friday afternoon in search of Joseph Whitsed.

Whitesed apparently walked away from the Columbus State Hospital shortly after noon Friday. He was located by Detective Thompson south of Circleville on Route 23.

He was ordered to CSI by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer to undergo psychiatric examination after being charged with attempted aggravated murder.

Whitesed was arrested after he apparently fired shots at a Pickaway County Highway Department worker.

House Turns Down Aid To 7 Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Democratic leaders in the House of Representatives are looking to the Senate to overturn House-passed bans against U.S. aid or trade with Cuba and against indirect aid to six other nations.

The legislative defeats for Carter came Thursday as the House passed a $6.7-billion foreign aid appropriations measure, trimmed before final approval by $373 million.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill accused Republicans of "pure demagoguery" after the House voted to ban even indirect aid to Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Uganda, Angola and Mozambique, as well as taking steps to block trade with Cuba.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the House action, "if sustained will damage the ability of this country to pursue our national interests by peaceful means."

Powell did not threaten a presidential veto of the bill, but said passage of the aid ban by Congress "could lead to politicalization of traditionally nonpolitical institutions" and invite "other countries to take similar actions and attach political conditions to their contributions."

The bill, approved 208-174, was sent to the Senate.

In other areas, the House rejected an effort to cut Carter's U.S. aid request for South Korea and gave him a clearcut victory by reversing a committee decision to cut aid for Nicaragua.

A group of Republicans whooped for joy as the House approved their $373 million cut at the last minute. They traditionally try to cut almost every money bill the House considers and this was their first win in several years.

Rejecting an appeal from Carter, the House voted to prohibit U.S. aid or trade with six nations even in the form of assistance from international banks to which the United States contributes.

Air Rules Costing GM Billion Yearly

CINCINNATI (AP) — The vice chairman of General Motors Corp. says government regulations cost GM about $1 billion annually, mainly because of the Clean Air Act of 1970.

"I'm not saying we shouldn't have regulations," said Richard L. Terrell, a native of Dayton, Ohio, who was here Thursday to address the national convention of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, Inc. (VICA).

"But somewhere along the line somebody in government has to look at the cost effectiveness of what it is requiring," said the Detroit, Mich. based executive.

Terrell, 58, oversees the automotive giant's executives, staff development programs and keeps tuned to changes in laws, customer preferences, engineering, the public and GM employes.

Terrell said he began tabulating costs of dealing with federal regulations after 1972. He said GM spent $1.3 billion in 1974, $968 million in 1975 and "about $1 billion in 1976."

"In terms of total manpower, this meant we had somewhere from 22,000 to 25,000 of our best people working on these problems, people who might have been working on other things," said Terrell.

Terrell said the Clean Air Act has been a vexing problem for GM. "This has meant thousands of miles of road tests and inspections that are essential."

Terrell said he believes a "scientific and businesslike" study on the effects of pollution on people should be made "before the decisions are made" by government that will cost industry billions of dollars.

Terrell noted the GM has made signficant changes in personnel in keeping with the times. Some developments include:

—The number of women entering the General Motors Institute, GM's engineering university of 2,800, is now 33 per cent and the number of freshman minority students is 20 per cent.

—A corporate-level consumer relations and service department has been created with its own vice president.

—A drug rehabilitation program has been initiated at several plants as an extension of the alcoholic rehabilitation project begun in 1972. That program claims a 60 per cent success rate, he said.

Public Meetings

Policemen Open Ticketing Drive

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Police here are gambling that the public reaction to a "ticket-writing spree" will encourage the city council to adopt a proposed $2,500 pay hike for most policemen.

Officers began enforcing the letter of the law Wednesday night and by Thursday one department spokesman said the number of parking and moving violations was "1,000 per cent" above normal levels.

Tickets were issued for violations which included dirty license plates, jaywalking and failure to have auto registrations signed in ink.

Foster Selected For School Job

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Sue Foster was named Friday as acting superintendent of the Athens Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, effective July 2.

She replaces Floyd H. Sarff, who was transferred. Mrs. Foster has been assistant superintendent for 1½ years.

Treasury Chief, Wife Separated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and his wife, Eileen, are separating after 26 years of marriage.

A Treasury spokesman said Thursday that the Blumenthals' decision "was reached by mutual consent and after long and searching thought."

The Blumenthals have three grown daughters.

The Blumenthals were married Sept. 8, 1951. Mrs. Blumenthal, who has a doctorate in education, has a scientific research job here.

Fear More Coal Strike Violence

STEARNS, Ky. (AP) - "We're expecting more trouble just about any minute," McCreary County Sheriff Joe Pery said of an 11-month-old strike at the Stearns Coal Co.'s Jestus Mine. "I'd say the situation is very tense right now."

The mine, which resembles a bullet-riddled battlefield in many respects, was quiet on Friday, authorities said.

On Thursday, a 27-year-old miner was shot in the leg. A private security guard was arrested in connected with the shooting.

The miner, Ray Hamlin, became the fourth gunshot victim since the 140 miners went on strike last July. The first three were guards.

"The picketers are expecting more trouble and they're expecting the same game tonight." Perry said late Friday night. "I can tell by the attitude of the men that they're expecting some kind of trouble. I can tell by their uneasiness."

Perry said eight men were picketing the southeastern Kentucky mine late Friday night.

"I don't know the number of guards," he said. "They're in a compound behind an eight-foot fence."

Earlier, Perry said, "Hardly a night goes by when there's not any gunfire. And now that a union man's been shot, I'm afraid it's going to get worse."

Search Nets CSI Walkaway

Pickaway County Sheriff's Detective Don Thompson led an extensive search of Circleville late Friday afternoon in search of Joseph Whitsed.

Whitesed apparently walked away from the Columbus State Hospital shortly after noon Friday. He was located by Detective Thompson south of Circleville on Route 23.

He was ordered to CSI by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer to undergo psychiatric examination after being charged with attempted aggravated murder.

Whitesed was arrested after he apparently fired shots at a Pickaway County Highway Department worker.

House Turns Down Aid To 7 Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Democratic leaders in the House of Representatives are looking to the Senate to overturn House-passed bans against U.S. aid or trade with Cuba and against indirect aid to six other nations.

The legislative defeats for Carter came Thursday as the House passed a $6.7-billion foreign aid appropriations measure, trimmed before final approval by $373 million.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill accused Republicans of "pure demagoguery" after the House voted to ban even indirect aid to Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Uganda, Angola and Mozambique, as well as taking steps to block trade with Cuba.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the House action, "if sustained will damage the ability of this country to pursue our national interests by peaceful means."

Powell did not threaten a presidential veto of the bill, but said passage of the aid ban by Congress "could lead to politicalization of traditionally nonpolitical institutions" and invite "other countries to take similar actions and attach political conditions to their contributions."

The bill, approved 208-174, was sent to the Senate.

In other areas, the House rejected an effort to cut Carter's U.S. aid request for South Korea and gave him a clearcut victory by reversing a committee decision to cut aid for Nicaragua.

A group of Republicans whooped for joy as the House approved their $373 million cut at the last minute. They traditionally try to cut almost every money bill the House considers and this was their first win in several years.

Rejecting an appeal from Carter, the House voted to prohibit U.S. aid or trade with six nations even in the form of assistance from international banks to which the United States contributes.

It went further with Cuba and voted 274-112 to prohibit both aid and trade with that country, either directly or indirectly.
